ABSTRACT

A study was conducted at Blinn College in Texas to investigate the performance of students enrolled in 20 selected fall 1993 courses and their subsequent performance in related courses in spring 1994. The study sought to provide an outcome measure for the courses that could be use in program review and development, student advisement, and student retention activities. For example, there were 651 students enrolled in Biology 1408 in fall 1993, with 416 of the group receiving a C or better. In spring 1994, all but 167 of those 651 students were still enrolled at Blinn, with 171 of them enrolled in the associated course, Biology 1409. Of the 171 students, 125 received a grade of C or better in Biology 1409, 27 students received a D or F, and 16 did not complete the course. Other sample findings included the following: (1) of the 1,810 students who took English 1301 in fall 1993, 853 took English 1302 in spring 1994; (2) of the 762 continuing students who received a grade of A through C in English 1301, 558 received a grade of A through C in English 1302, 69 received a D or F, 127 dropped out, and 1 received an incomplete; and (3) 32 students who received a D or F in Math 0309 in fall 1993 repeated the course in spring 1994, and 10 received an A through C. The bulk of the report consists of tables comparing fall and spring grades for each pair of courses, and including the number of students who did not take the related course and the number not enrolled at Blinn College in Spring 1994. Performance of 1993 Fall Semester Students in Associated 1994 Spring Semester Courses and Other Student Performance Trackings

Introduction and Methodology

This report primarily documents the performance of students enrolled in selected 1993 fall semester courses and their subsequent performance in associated 1994 spring semester courses. This information is contained in Section I of the report. The tracking tables of Section II depict the performance during the following academic year of students enrolled in certain fall, 1992 courses. A total of sixty-six trackings are included in this report, examining the follow-up performance of students in twenty different courses.

This study was conducted to provide data that could be used as an outcome measure for several of the twenty courses that are included in this report. Program review and development, student advisement and student retention are some of the possible applications of the results of this study.

Explanation and Use of the Tracking Data Tables

In each tracking table of Section I, the first row with numeric entries displays the 1994 spring semester information about the students who received grades of A, B or C in the 1993 fall semester course identified at the extreme left side of each table. By example, considering the first table on Tracking Data Sheet 1, there were 651 students enrolled in Biology 1408 during the 1993 fall semester. Of that total, 416 students received a grade of C or better in Biology 1408. In the 1994 spring semester, all but 167 of those 651 students were still enrolled at Blinn College, with 171 of them enrolled in the associated course Biology 1409. The academic performance of those 171 students enrolled in Biology 1409 is summarized in the last row of the given table. According to that last row, 125 of those 171 students received a grade of A, B, or C in Biology 1409. Another 27 of those students received grades of D or F, while 16 of them never finished Biology 1409 that spring semester.

It should be noted that the row totals do not include the column to the extreme right. That rightmost column is inserted to allow a better interpretation of the number of students who did not enroll in the identified spring semester course.

The results contained in the first row of each table may be especially useful as one measure of the impact of a given course on subsequent course work. This row indicates the performance in the follow-up course by those students who received grades of C or better in the identified first course. A preferred outcome would be that very few of the students who received final grades of C or better in the fall semester course would receive a final grade below C in the associated spring semester follow-up course. This desired outcome can be explored by inspecting the first row of each tracking data table. The count that appears in the "D or F", "Dropped" and "I or IP" columns of that first row should be numerically very low.
